

Rashmi Chanduraj

Managing Partner

Rashmi Chanduraj is the founder and managing partner of Arcstone Capital Partners, where she combines her passion for real estate and technology to help busy professionals build long-term wealth through multifamily investments. She focuses on applying AI and data-backed strategies to drive smart decision-making, reduce risk, and enhance operational performance.

With over 450 units under management, Rashmi has led Arcstone's growth through disciplined execution, a people-first philosophy, and a commitment to building sustainable, community-centered investments. Her background in human capital and program management enables her to simplify complex deals and build trusted relationships with investors.

She holds a Master of Administrative Science from Fairleigh Dickinson University and is passionate about using intelligent systems to create efficient, transparent, and values-driven investment opportunities.